TripBatch

Tour operators

Build a holiday around flights, stays, cruises and transfers. Manage the inventory and price of the package, then sell it directly or through travel agencies.

Choose the package format

Sell a predefined departure, combine available components dynamically, or use a tailored itinerary as an example to scope separately.

Set what can go on sale

Set package prices and check the allotments of the travel components included in the offer.

Distribute the offer

Prepare the same travel offer for direct travellers and decide what agency partners can sell.

Example workflow

Start with a flight and hotel for a weekend getaway. Add a transfer to the offer and check that all three components are available before opening sales.

Contracted stock → Available components → Package assembly → Package price → Direct or agency sale → Reservation follow-up

Identify the component that prevents a sale, then give operations and sales a shared view of what the package includes.
